New York's Heritage & Hybrid Wines

with Carlo DeVito

Winemakers in the Northern U.S. have recognized the potential of, literally, going back to our roots. The term “heritage” or “heirloom” applies to grapes that were bred and developed in the U.S. and are at least 100 years old as their own varietal of grape. Hybrid wines, made from a cross of European Vitis vinifera vines and American Vitis labrusca, have the reputation of being cold-hardy, resistant to pests, mold and rot. For wine lovers who are increasingly prioritizing minimal intervention in winemaking, and natural and biodynamic wines along with seeking out new taste adventures – these wines check every box.
